

Intrinsics Trend Report: HydraFacials

HydraFacials. You've heard the hype, but what are they all about? In this blog we're going to discuss how they work, their benefits, and all the in-betweens.

Enter the Intrinsics Trend Report: HydraFacials!

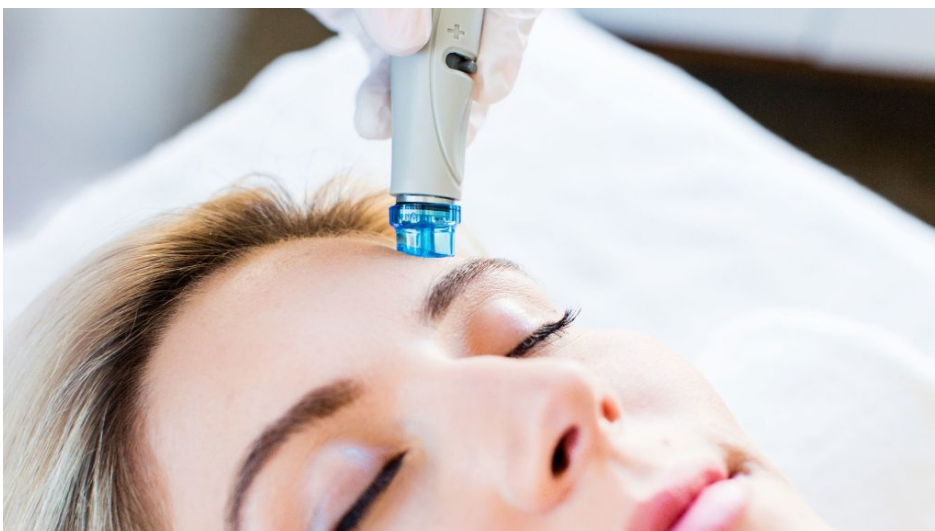

What's in a Name?

Despite the name, HydraFacials don't actually feature water. According to tripsavvy.com, the hydrafacial is a machine with a handheld device that uses four different HydroPeel tips and various skin care solutions (chemical exfoliants, antioxidants, and hydrating serums like hyaluronic acid to achieve its results. The spiral design of the tips used in conjunction with the HydraFacial vacuum technology creates a vortex effect to easily dislodge and remove impurities while simultaneously introducing solutions that exfoliate, hydrate and infuse your skin with antioxidants.

Where and How?

If you're interested (we don't blame you, how could you not be?!), HydraFacials are an extremely popular procedure—therefore, they're offered by professionals at many spas and salons all over the world. The price varies depending on the location and any add-ons that you may choose to get during the service, but you should expect to pay about $150-$350 for a HydraFacial. Flawless skin is priceless!
